Gary Storr

General Manager – Trust Your Supplier

Currently Gary is General Manager of Trust Your Supplier, a revolutionary new supplier information management marketplace that connects business partners through a trusted, validated, blockchain-based network. In his role Gary is responsible for all business operations, overseeing commercial solutions, product vision and direction, roadmap execution, and portfolio strategy.

Gary has nearly 30 years of corporate experience at all levels of Information Technology. He's held senior executive IT roles with responsibilities that include enterprise solution delivery, corporate infrastructure operations, global application development, professional services integration, and global business strategy.

Prior to joining Chainyard, Gary served as Chief Information Officer for Nortel Networks. During the multi-billion dollar company's recent liquidation, Gary led strategic initiatives necessary for wind-down, including; business optimization, custodial data analytics, IT divestiture planning & execution, corporate computing infrastructure virtualization, and business application rationalization.

A New Jersey native, Gary and his wife Michele reside in Raleigh, NC. In his spare time Gary pursues a fanatical interest in fitness, teaching group classes before sunrise and running competitively in extreme distance obstacle.
